

Health Research in a Changing World

Fighting Diseases and Improving Lives

Are you ready for an exciting career that could help improve millions of lives around the world?

Then consider joining the scientific and medical forces at NIAID. As part of the Division of Allergy, Immunology, and Transplantation (DAIT) at NIAID, the Asthma, Allergy, and Inflammation Branch (AAIB) is responsible for planning and conducting programs of extramural basic and clinical research aimed at understanding the biology of asthma and allergic diseases. AAIB/DAIT has the following scientific opportunity available:

Section Chief

As Chief of the Asthma and Inflammation Section of AAIB, the selected candidate will lead an extramural research program with a diverse portfolio of grants and contracts focusing on the immunologic basis, etiology, pathogenesis, and treatment of asthma and inflammatory diseases. The Chief of the section leads a staff of physicians, scientists, and project managers responsible for development and implementation of new initiatives in these areas and the direction and oversight of ongoing research programs through site visits and frequent contact with principal investigators. The selected candidate will also oversee and advise on development of clinical trial protocols. In order to be considered for this position, applicants should have experience in basic and/or clinical research to examine the causes, diagnosis, treatment and prevention of allergic diseases; research on asthma, allergy, inflammation, or immunology is required. Candidates must also have experience in managing complex biomedical research programs, including the development of pre-clinical animal models, human subjects, and/or clinical trials. Experience in the preparation and review of research project grant applications is also necessary. The selected candidate must possess an M.D. or D.O. to be considered for this position. Salary is commensurate with research experience and accomplishments, and a full package of benefits (including retirement, health, life and long term care insurance, Thrift Savings Plan participation, etc.) is available.
